

ABSTRACT

A ferrule is provided which comprises an inner wall defining a conduit extending between an inlet opening and an outlet opening; a first surface is defined by a first region of the inner wall; and a second surface is defined by a second region of the inner wall.